DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to the preliminary amendment filed on 3 March 2001, in which claims 1-20 are presented for examination.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9 and 20, drawn to an access control system comprising: a monitoring processor which monitors issuance of a file access request made by means of said input/output processor, notifies said access controller of an issued file access request and receives the result of validity determination from said access controller; and said monitoring processor uses information to identify the access request source, access execution processor and access type to notify said access controller of said issued file access request, classified in class 707, subclass 6.

- II. Claims 10-19, drawn to an information processing system comprising: a first OS for controlling a processor for input/output to files and a first memory processor for exclusive use; a second OS for controlling a second memory processor for exclusive use; and a communication processor for data communications between said first OS and second OS, wherein said first OS has a monitoring processor to monitor a file access request issued to said processor for input/output to files under its control; said second OS has an access controller to determine the validity of said file access request according to the access control policy, classified in class 707, subclass 10.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Invention listed Group I and Group II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention has separate utility as follow.

Group I. An access control system comprising: a monitoring processor which monitors issuance of a file access request made by means of said input/output processor, notifies said access controller of an issued file access request and receives the result of validity determination from said access controller; and said monitoring processor uses information to identify the access request source, access execution processor and access type to notify said access controller of said issued file access request.

Group II. An information processing system comprising: a first OS for controlling a processor for input/output to files and a first memory processor for exclusive use; a second OS for controlling a second memory processor for exclusive use; and a communication processor for data communications between said first OS and second OS, wherein said first OS has a monitoring processor to monitor a file access request issued to said processor for input/output to files under its control; said second OS has an access controller to determine the validity of said file access request according to the access control policy.

Art Unit: 2162

See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons give above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications, restriction for examination purposes is proper.

Because these invention are distinct for the reasons given above and the search for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant(s) are reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors in no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

A telephone call was made to Mr. Robert Colwell (Reg. No. 27,431), on December 08, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.
